

Alicia Alinia

Practice Group Leader
Personal Injury

London, UK

Alicia is a Personal Injury Solicitor at Slater and Gordon Lawyers in London.

She heads our Personal Injury Department. She has helped handle some of our most high-profile and complex personal injury claims – many involving numerous victims.

From the thalidomide litigations to the investigations surrounding Jimmy Savile, she is skilled at juggling multiple claimants while ensuring each gets the full benefit of her expertise.

She is also an authority on claims for spinal injury and brain injury compensation.

During her career she has handled numerous cases surrounding employer's liability, occupier's liability and actions for noise-induced hearing loss, deafness, chemical exposure and other industrial diseases.

On top of her daily caseload and management responsibilities, Alicia is heavily involved in parliamentary lobbying activities to safeguard consumer rights and access to justice. She also acts as a trustee for Pain UK.

She is an experienced public speaker, contributes to newspaper and magazine articles and is interviewed regularly on radio and all major television channels.

Expertise

- Personal injury
- Financial and people management
- Multi-claimant action
- Employer and public liability
- Head and spinal injury
- Deafness litigation
- Industrial disease

Career history

- Since 2011 Slater and Gordon
- 2008 - 2011 Thompsons solicitors
- Studied at the College of Law, London

Professional memberships

- Member of the Association of Personal Injury Lawyers (APIL)

- Trustee of Pain UK