

Paul Macbeth

Associate
Personal Injury

Manchester, UK

Paul handles a multitude of personal injury cases.

He has substantial litigation experience and has successfully concluded numerous claims arising from road traffic accidents, employers' liability, public liability, occupiers' liability and those relating to defective products and services.

His primary area of expertise is in road traffic accidents and he has acted for a wide range of individuals in these circumstances.

These include members of the Police Federation, CTC, Prospect and the PCS.

Clients have included those sustaining both minor and very serious injuries, and dependents and estate in fatal accidents.

He has also successfully concluded various unusual cases surrounding defective bicycle parts and services, defective highway design, claims against insured and uninsured foreign drivers abroad and numerous cases involving police officers injured in the course of their duties.
